1. JUYH - Rona Landman

Rona Landman presents the Juyh bench as part of her new furniture line, INSPIRED. The collection draws inspiration from various designers including Karl Springer and Vladimir Kagan and features materials in the vein of mid-twentieth century trends. Rona Landman opened her eponymous firm in 1995 and caters to a discriminating clientele. www.ronalandmaninteriordesign.com

2. EAMES - Herman Miller

Introduced in 1950, Eames desk units and Eames storage units helped establish an exciting new residential furniture look. The units complement each other, or they can stand alone. They are striking examples of how Charles and Ray Eames extended the boundaries of design to create a modern aesthetic. www.hermanmiller.com/tempo

3. Zii DRIVE - SurfaceWorks

Grace and style meet practicality in the exquisitely designed flipping, folding, and nesting Zii Drive table and chairs. Flip the top, fold & attach the chairs, nest the set, and move it away - it's just that elegantly simple. www.surfaceworks.us

4. CLODAGH - Perennials

Featured is rough Raffia, a blend of solution-dyed acrylic and hemp that has the natural look of woven raffia but the high performance of Perennials technology. Pygmy Stripe is a bold and dramatic textural stripe while Zulu Stripe offers a larger scaled blanket stripe in a similar texture. These timeless textiles have a calm, confident luxury that feeds the spirit and the soul while still exhibiting Perennials fabrics' trademark reputation for durability and versatility. www.perennialsfabrics.com

5. SOLACE CHAIR- Seatability

The light, airy look of the linear bands in 36 colors of the Solace Chair is combined with the beautiful ergonomic curves of its profile to create a pure statement of "functional elegance." Welded Steel frames, die cast brackets and utility strength bands typically found in more industrial surroundings have now been elegantly designed to complement today's more fashionable, chic office venue. www.seatability.com
