1. Turquoise Haze paint by Benjamin Moore makes the front door a focal point. 2. On the front porch, Kantha cloth pillows brighten a vintage sofa covered in Raffia Noir by Perennials. 3. Matte black paint modernizes the old claw-foot tub. 4. Under a window in the airy dining room, a feminine workspace features a leggy duo: a Paul Marra parchment-and-brass desk and a Saarinen-style upholstered chair. 5. A simple Douglas Fir picnic table and benches from the NK Shop collection is set for backyard dining with an indigo throw and metal tray. 6. In the son's bedroom, Weego Baby furniture was painted yellow to coordinate with Cath Kidston's Cowboy wallpaper and a vintage circus-sign light. "Kids' rooms should be colorful, but they don't have to be girly pink or boyish blue," Nickey says. 7. On the picnic table, horn-handled serving pieces from Maxwell-Silver. OPPOSITE: Farrow & Ball's Drag wallpaper gives the master bedroom depth. A throw made from Tortuga by Calvin Fabrics picks up the wallpaper color. A Calypso Home rug and an NK Shop headboard, both made of hemp, add texture to the natural palette.
