TERRACE

DESIGN BY FERNANDO WONG

"It really breathes," was Wong's assessment of the 3,000-square-foot terrace of the penthouse at 250 Wynwood, positioned to capture breezes flowing from the northeast. Wanting to create "a sense of bringing the indoors out," he upholstered a Sutherland sectional worthy of any great room in Perennials fabrics in muted tones to complement the natural wood.

The partial canopy above featured an original kaleidoscope painting by artist Johnny Robles for Fortis Development Group, curated by Anthony Spinello of Spinello Projects. It celebrated the art of the street—while offering a relaxing oasis five stories above it.
